Florida Medicaid Now Covering
Breast Pumps

Florida Medicaid Now Covering Breast Pumps!

As of January 1, 2016, the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) announced that electric breast pumps and hospital grade breast pumps will now be added to the Medicaid Durable Medical Equipment (DME) schedule as a covered benefit for new mothers, when medically necessary. These items will require a Prior Authorization.

The best way to ensure widespread access is for providers to work with Medicaid-enrolled expecting mothers to request pumps from Medicaid managed care plans ahead of delivery. The Affordable Care Act (2010) requires most health insurance plans to cover the cost of a breast pump as part of women's preventative health services.
